

What is a green enterprise?

TTK Business Action Group recognises that there are many ways to "green" a business or community enterprise and to reduce your carbon dioxide emissions and dependence on oil. For example: you have a Green Champion on your staff and/or an environmental policy statement and/or commitment to One Planet Living and/or environmental training for staff; you source and/or sell local, sustainable and/or organic materials and/or products; you recycle, and use recycled and recyclable products and packaging; you have radically reduced energy use in your premises and/or transport and travel....

You may have achieved environmental accreditation or awards or certificates, for example, standard green accreditations such as: Carbon Smart; ISO 14001; BS 8901 sustainable management systems; Green tourism; Acorn scheme (BS8555); The Mayor of London green procurement code (BS8903 sustainable procurement); Green dragon environmental standard; EMAS; ISO 26000; Go Green; Go Green Plus; Eco-Schools; or product based accreditations such as: Blue Angel (die Blaue Engel); Rain Forest Alliance certificate; FSC certificate; Marine Stewardship Council; organic accreditation (see http://www.aboutorganics.co.uk/organic_information/organic_accreditation.htm)
